Prescriptive Integrative Models for Play Therapy

This is a Level II workshop for intermediate and advanced practitioners of play therapy. As the field of play therapy has expanded in recent years clinicians are working with more complex cases involving children dealing with multiple issues. The use of one generic theory as the basis for our therapy is often insufficient to treat the complex problems that children bring us. Prescriptive and integrative play therapy models offer the framework for developing a comprehensive and more effective therapeutic experience.

This workshop will demonstrate the use of a prescriptive approach balanced with a therapeutic relationship that facilitates the child's social and emotional development. To insure progress at each stage of therapy there are decision points for updating the prescriptive plan. Examples of a multi-component plan with progress review at these decision points will illustrate the process. Practice with tailoring clinical strategies and building a comprehensive plan for play therapy will provide a framework for the most effective use of the methods you have in your therapeutic toolbox.

Learning Objectives: This workshop will help participants:

1. Understand principles and purpose of the prescriptive model of play therapy.
2. Explore integrated models of play therapy that offer a framework for comprehensive interventions.

3. Use prescriptive tools to determine decision points, review progress and revise clinical strategies during the course of treatment.
4. Organize a sequentially integrated plan for play therapy to meet a client's complex needs.
